Governments around the world are ignoring the environmental crisis and bosses are trading our futures for profit. Now is the time to act and fight for a better world.

The first Ecosocialism Conference was initiated by AntiCapitalist Resistance in 2023 with over 150 people attending. A second conference in 2024 saw over 250 people from across the climate movement, trade unions, the socialist left and direct action groups coming together to meet, debate and organise.

Afterwards we launched the Ecosocialist Action Network (EAN) to help get the climate crisis front and centre in politics. EAN has hosted Climate Assemblies in Birmingham and London, and helped build the 20 October Make Them Pay protest targeting the super-rich who are driving the climate crisis.

This year the Conference is happening on Saturday 30 May at London South Bank University. We're bringing together climate organisers, trade unionists, activists and ecosocialists for a full day of ideas, strategy and organising. Topics include: Low wages and climate collapse - same cause, same solution! • The fight against 2°C warming • How to get a globally just transition • Uniting climate activists with trade unions • Mitigating the worst effects • Ecocide in Gaza • Transforming our cities for people and planet.

There will be international speakers, practical workshops and a social afterwards.
